

Cover Letter for Web Development Mentoring

Good day.

I'm Alex Wong, currently working in the educational field. I wrote my first line of code during my master degree and currently trying my luck to pursue web development jobs in the tech industry. Since I'm coming from a different working field, and I have no chance to have internship or some sort to learn and experience web development in the tech industry, so it would really be an honor if I could have the chance to learn it from you. I'm really glad too to see that you provide this kind of mentoring to those who needed it.
